

What's PTA?

(1) Purpose of PTA

Guardians and teachers learn, cooperate and work together for a common purpose with school as "Children's sound upbringing."

It is very important that school, home and community work together and share their own responsibility of education for their children to grow up and develop soundly/healthy.

Especially cooperation between school and home that directly have responsibility of their children's education, is necessary.

In addition, it is able to expand more developmental and effective activities by working together with communities.

In conclusion, PTA is social educational association that has purpose below,

- Connecting school, home and community.
- Educating children and improving environment by working with community.
- Making progress of children's education and welfare.
- Place for adult education and lifelong learning
- Understanding of school education and cooperation.

(2) Members

Guardians and teachers are the members of PTA. They are in the equal position as PTA members. They are not either supposed to depend on teachers too much, nor do only guardians activities all the times.

(3) Essence of PTA

PTA is the optional association of organized independently to aim "Children's sound upbringing". It is principle for members to join freely. It is not either supporter's organization nor affiliate organization. It is operated democratically, and it is not ruled, controlled and interfered with other association.

It takes the neutral position to specific political party and religion. And it's not performed for commercial.
